EQUITABLE SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION
CHECKING/MONEY MARKET (MMA) ACCOUNT OVERDRAFT DISCLOSURE
Effective December 9, 2010
(revised June, 2020)

The Association may from time to time accommodate the consumer and pay overdrafts on a discretionary, ad-hoc basis. The Association is under no legal obligation to pay any overdraft.

Regardless of whether the overdraft item is paid or returned, the association may charge an overdraft or a return item fee.

The Association may charge a fee when an account is overdrawn. The Association's standard overdraft services do not apply to everyday debit card and ATM transactions (purchases made with your debit card on a day-to-day basis). These transactions typically will be declined when you don't have enough money in your account, but you will not be charged overdraft fees. These rules do not apply if your account is overdrawn from checks and automatic bill payments.

Overdraft fees apply to transactions created by check, in-person withdrawal, internal transfer, or other electronic means. Overdraft fees will not be imposed on ATM withdrawals or one-time debit card items.

More than one overdraft fee may be charged per day depending on the number of checks presented and other withdrawals made from the checking account.

It is the financial responsibility of the consumer to manage his/her checking account in a manner which will not allow overdrafts to occur.

The Association reserves the right to monitor checking accounts and identify consumers who do not manage their accounts in a satisfactory manner. The consequences of extensively over drafting an account may result in the Association closing the checking account.

Transactions may not necessarily be processed in the order in which they occurred or in the order in which they were received by the Association. This process can affect the total amount of overdraft fees incurred by our account holders.

It is the policy of the Association to process the checks in the order of smallest to largest. Electronic transactions are presented first or as they are incurred throughout the day prior to the posting of checks.

The Association does not have a formal overdraft protection program, where the Association performs a credit check on the consumer, provides a period of time to repay the overdraft and charge an interest rate based on the time of repayment. This program would be generally known as an "Overdraft Line of Credit"

If you maintain other transaction accounts with the Association, we can set you up for an automatic transfer of funds from one transaction account to another, in order to cover an overdraft. The funds must be available in the account we are transferring from and both accounts must be titled the same. There will be a $5.00 fee for each transfer. Initially, all account owners must sign an authorization to allow us to perform the automatic transfer.

A customer is expected to cover an overdraft paid by Equitable Savings and Loan Association within 24 hours of the overdraft. Failure to return your account to a positive balance may result in us closing your account and turning your account over to a collection agency or other third party, such as our legal counsel.

Returned Check Fee of $25.00 will be charged for each item returned unpaid.

Paid Check Fee of $25.00 will be charged for each item paid.
